Subject: Mayor's Small Business Stakeholder Disaster Awareness Series

Hello,

I am intern in the Mayor's Office of Economic Development under Frank Aguirre and this Summer we are hosting a series on Disaster Awareness for the small business community.

In collaboration with the Emergency Management Department we are hosting a series of events for small business owners and stakeholders to learn about the city's disaster preparedness and tour the state-of-the-art Emergency Operations Center (EOC).

There will be 10 events throughout the summer with each event catering to a specific region. The regions were selected in coordination with the various Business Source Centers across the city.

Please feel free to invite your members to an event for your region. We are looking to have 50-60 people per event.

We ask that people RSVP via the EventBrite Links (found on the flyer Attached).

The events will be held on Tuesdays, usually starting at 10:30am.

The first event is Tuesday June 24 for the South Region.

RSVP: Online at <http://disasterawarenesssouth.eventbrite.com>

Attached is the schedule of events and further information.

Flyers and information for specific events will also be sent out.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you for your consideration and partnership.

Best,

About:

Mayor's Small Business Stakeholder Disaster Awareness Series

WHAT: The Emergency Management Department and Mayor's Office of Economic Development, in collaboration with the U.S. Small Business Administration Los Angeles Region, are providing community stakeholders and small businesses an exciting opportunity to get information on the city's disaster preparedness and the role they play in helping the city "Stay open for Business." Along with an update from the Mayor's Small Business Team, there will be a tour of the "Safest Building in the City," the state-of-the-art Emergency Operations Center (EOC). The building is the city's point of primary coordination for disaster management.

WHERE: Emergency Operations Center – Emergency Management Department
